Preacher's Point

By Dan Schillinger

The Fundamental Attribute of God's Nature

Which aspect of God's nature is fundamental, explaining all of his other attributes? Followers of the very influential John Calvin (1509 - 1564) have thought that his sovereign control of all things is his most fundamental attribute. Others have suggested that it is his exclusive demand for worship, i.e., his jealousy. Yet others have thought that his wrath against sin is most fundamental. Still others have suggested other personal divine attributes. But God directly answers this question in his own words in Exodus 34:4-7, <sup>4</sup> Moses cut two stone tablets like the first ones. He got up early in the morning, and taking the two stone tablets in his hand, he climbed Mount Sinai, just as the LORD had commanded him.

<sup>6</sup> Then the LORD passed in front of him and proclaimed: "Yahweh—Yahweh is a compassionate and gracious God, slow to anger and rich in faithful love and truth,

<sup>7</sup> maintaining faithful love to a thousand [generations], forgiving wrongdoing, rebellion, and sin. But He will not leave [the guilty] unpunished, bringing the consequences of the fathers' wrong-doing on the children and grandchildren to the third and fourth generation. (Holman Christian Standard Bible)

From its mention twice in this text it is obvious that the most fundamental attribute of God's nature is his "faithful love." "Steadfast love" is how the Revised Standard Version, New Revised Standard Version, and English Standard Version insightfully translate the underlying Hebrew term, késed.

It would be difficult to overstate how prominent and significant this oft-used Old Testament word really is. The term is a rich and multi-faceted concept, with elements of love, kindness, mercy and covenant faithfulness. It communicates that the LORD is always passionately pursuing a personal relationship with every one of us. God chases after us, even when in our sin we are not interested. No single English word or even a phrase can do justice to the full meaning of késed. Not only is this the single most important word in Scripture for describing the essence of God's nature, and his attitude towards humanity; it is also descriptive of what should be our reciprocal attitude towards God, and how we also ought to regard one another. The following passages are very notable:

Genesis 24:27; 39:21; Exodus 15:13; 34:5-7;

2 Samuel 7:15; Psalm 136; Lamentations 3:22-24; Hosea 6:6 (quoted by Jesus at Matthew 9:13; 12:7); & Jonah 4:2.

Every other attribute of God--his sovereignty, his wrath, his jealousy, and all other attributes--are outgrowths of steadfast love towards you and me. Truly,

Today's Sermon

a.m. "A Book Rightly Divided"

2 Timothy 2:15

Congregational potluck will immediately follow the morning service. Our high school graduates will be honored, and then our day here will conclude with a brief devotional service. No service will be held at the regular time this evening.

The steadfast love of the LORD never ceases; his mercies never come to an end; they are new every morning; great is your faithfulness. "The LORD is my portion," says my soul, "therefore I will hope in him."
(Lamentations 3:22-24)

Welcome Visitors

We are pleased to have the opportunity to welcome you to our service. We think you will find our congregation family to be one that enthusiastically embraces newcomers and warmly welcomes them into our fellowship. We hope you feel right at home as you join us in worship, praise and thanksgiving.
