Guest article, part 1 of 2:

Do You Know You Will Go To Heaven?

by Mike Riley

Heaven, or Hell? A Christian lady phoned to ask if it was right for her to tell others that she knew she was going to heaven. She had begun to doubt it was right for her to say this to others because they might think she was bragging.

What Can We Know?

Does the Bible teach that we can know we are going to heaven? If so, what passage can be quoted to prove we can know? We may not be able to know we are going to heaven, but we can know we have eternal life (1 John 5:13).

How Can We Know?

The purpose of what John wrote, was so we can “know” we have eternal life. Our knowledge that we have eternal life is not based on emotions, a special testimony of the Holy Spirit, or an inner feeling. We can “know” based on what is written, for John wrote so that we may “know” we have eternal life.

Preceding verse 13, John stated, “And this is the testimony that God has given us eternal life, and this life is in his Son. He who has the Son has life; he who does not have the Son of God, does not have life” (1 John 5:11-12). God gave testimony through the miracles he performed through Jesus (John 8:18; John 10:25; Acts 2:22), that through our believing in him, based on what has been written concerning Jesus, we can “know” we have eternal life (John 20:30-31).

The Word of God!

Today's Sermon

One of our shepherds, Courtney Cheri, is bringing us a third message in our series this morning:

a.m. “You Gotta Read the Fine Print”

Matthew 19:4-6 p.m.

Opportunity for discussion and reflection on the morning sermon.

Eternal Life in Jesus

Our assurance of eternal life is because we can share the eternal life that is in Jesus. We can “know” we have eternal life if we are “in him”; the source of eternal life. Our entry into Jesus takes place through our faith and repentance when we are baptized “into Christ” (Romans 6:3; Gal. 3:27). Our having eternal life is dependent on our being “in Jesus” in whom is eternal life.

After we are baptized, we can “know” we are in Jesus if we keep his word (1 John 2:4-5). We can “know” we are in Jesus and have eternal life if we perfect our love for God by keeping his word and continuing in what was taught in the beginning years of Christianity (1 John 2:24-25)

The Old Testament Narratives:
Their Proper Use (continued)

Adapted from Fee & Stuart, How to Read the Bible for All Its Worth (3rd edition)

Principles for Interpreting Narratives

If one is not familiar with the Ruth narrative, one should read the book through at least twice. Then, going back, we take particular note of the following implicit points that the narrative makes.

1. The narrative tells us that Ruth converted to faith in the LORD, the God of Israel. It does this by reporting Ruth's words to Naomi, "Your people will be my people and your God my God" (1:16), rather than by telling us "Ruth was converted." We are expected to be able to recognize that because she took the LORD as her God, she was converted. The narrative also implicitly confirms Ruth's conversion as genuine and not just lip service, by reporting these words of Ruth: "The LORD do to me, and more also if..." (1:17). These words clearly imply, though they do not state outright, that Ruth, a Moabite who once worshiped the gods of the Moabites, now believes in and lives by the standards of Yahweh, the LORD, Israel's God. There is no doubt that the narrative tells us that Ruth converted to faith in the true God, even though this is nowhere explicitly stated.

2. The narrative tells us implicitly that Boaz was a righteous Israelite who kept the Mosaic Law, though many other Israelites did not. Where does it say that? Look carefully at 2:3-13, 2:22, 3:10-12, and 4:9, 10. It is clear that Boaz, by his speech, sees himself as loyal to and under the authority of the LORD. We see that Boaz is keeping the law of gleaning promulgated in Leviticus 19:9, 10 (Ruth fits both categories of that law--she is poor and an alien), that he is keeping the law of redemption as promulgated in Leviticus 25:23, 24, and that not all Israelites were so loyal to the law--indeed it was dangerous to glean in the fields of people who did not obey the law's gleaning obligations (Ruth 2:22).
